Jason Boschan is embarking on a journey to create awareness and raise funds for PPA research locally, nationally and internationally by running the 2012 GREAT WALL OF CHINA MARATHON on behalf of his grandfather and others battling this disease.

Jason has partnered with the Cognitive Neurology and Alzheimer’s Disease Center at Northwestern University to raise a minimum of $20,000 for PPA research and education. His grandfather, Dr. Louis “papa” Heyman, recently stopped practicing as a Pediatrician after 50+ years due to PPA. This has been a very difficult adjustment for him as well as all of his family.

Please help support Jason’s voyage to bring global awareness and help find a cure for PPA.

To track Jason’s progress, please visit www.run4papa.com, or contact Jason at Jason@run4papa.com.

If you would like to donate to the cause, please contact CNADC’s Business Administrator, Kevin Connolly, at 312-503-2832 or k-connolly@northwestern.edu.

All proceeds go directly toward PPA research and education.
